2.1 Afghanistan Port Assessment

Afghanistan Port Assessment

Afghanistan is a landlocked country relying upon the sea port services of neighbouring Countries. The ports of Karachi and Port Qasim in Pakistan have traditionally been used by Afghanistan for all sea-bound freight. Afghanistan is also easily accessible through alternate ports in Iran. Although smaller in operational capacity they give an alternate supply route should insecurity escalate within Pakistan. These entry points would also allow direct access to the west of Afghanistan via Islamqallah (Heral) border avoiding insecure regions of Helmand, Farah & Nimroz within Afghanistan.

For information on alternative ports, please see the following links:

2.1 Pakistan Port Assessment
2.1 Iran Port Assessment

For information on Afghanistan Port contact details, please see the following link:

4.2.1 Afghanistan Government Contact List